

Militarism Holds Control Of Liberties Of People In Japan

Tokyo. Militarism held potential attack on the powers delegated by the most fundamental constitution to the highest human and economic liberties through its sweeping victory in the 73rd diet.

Pleading war-time necessity, the government introduced and gained enactment of:

1. The national mobilization bill placing life and property of the best citizen as well as the greatest occupation in government hands during "time of war or national emergency."

2. The electric power bill signing over to the government complete control of the electric industry.

3. A regular budget of 2,875,000,000 yen (more than $326,000,000) and a military budget to meet the costs of the war in China in 1938 of 4,820,000,000 yen more than $1,400,000,000.

4. Legislation empowering the government to create and partially finance two huge corporations for exploitation of conquered areas in north and central China.

Prime Minister Konohe, the premier, voiced his pleasure at results of the sessions and declared: "The government will not disappoint the nation in enforcing these great emergency measures."

As an instrument of highly-centralized state control, the mobilization measure is the more important.

Through declaration of a condition of emergency, the government may expropriate personal goods of the average citizen, suppress him "into national mobilization work," deny him the right of free speech, suppress his newspaper or close his bank.

Similarly, the government is given power to direct, restrict or prohibit virtually every function of business and finance externally and internally.

During debate over the measure, diet members opened a movement to merge all political parties into one group as a potential defence against a military oligarchy.

The lower house blocked the mobilization bill for two weeks and the words "high treason" and "direct

Had Brilliant Career

Saskatchewan's First Premier, Hon. Walter Scott, Dies in Guelph Hospital

Regina. Saskatchewan's first premier, Hon. Walter Scott, whose name will ever be linked with Regina and the province at large, died in hospital at Guelph, Ont., of a heart ailment. Seventy years old, he had lived in retirement for many years following a brilliant political career which started in 1890 when he went to Ottawa at the age of 33 as Liberal M.P. for Assiniboia West, in the old Territorial days. The constituency of Assiniboia comprised about half the territory now included in the province of Saskatchewan.

Newspaper editor and publisher in Regina before he was elected in 1905, Mr. Scott played a leading role in the early century fight for the autonomy of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

When Saskatchewan came into being in 1905, he led the Liberal party to victory in the first provincial election, defeating the followers of Frederick Haultain, former premier of the Northwest Territories and who later received a knighthood.

Premier until October 19, 1916, Mr. Scott was also first minister of public works and later minister of education. After his retirement from public life he recovered within two years from what had appeared to be an irremediable breakdown in health. He travelled extensively across Canada after taking up residence at Victoria, B.C., but never attempted to return to politics.

Mr. Scott was 33 years old when he went to Ottawa as Liberal member for Assiniboia and immediately undertook to fight for separation from the Northwest Territories of the prairie areas which in 1905 became Saskatchewan and Alberta.

King, at present office commanding "A" division here, is appointed director of the criminal investigation department at Ottawa; and Assistant Commissioner Thomas Dunn, now stationed at Winnipeg, was named director of police training here.

Assistant Commissioner R. L. Cadiz, stationed at Vancouver, will succeed Dunn at Winnipeg. Superintendent C. H. Hill, now at Winnipeg, will succeed Cadiz at Vancouver.

Coin May Be Valuable

Comby, Alta.—An American one-cent piece worth possibly $100, was discovered by the young son of J. Robert Comby, while playing in the attic of his home here. Dated 1799, its value is listed in coin catalogues as "from $5 to $400." Comby is near Medicine Hat 200 miles south-east of Calgary.

NEW COMMISSIONER

Dr. William Allen, B.S.A., Ph.D., Professor of Farm Management, University of Saskatchewan, who has been appointed Agricultural Commissioner for Canada in the United Kingdom.

Agreed Freight Rates

To Give Railways A Weapon Against Truck Competition

Ottawa. Agreed freight rates will give the railways a weapon against truck competition without injuring general business, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, told the House of Commons.

The house gave second reading to the government bill to establish a transport commission with regulatory powers over railways, inland shipping and air traffic. The bill was sent to the house railway committee which will hear representations for and against it.

Agreed rates, as set out in the bill, would be a new transportation feature for the American continent. The minister believed these were simple safeguards against the misuse, including the stipulation there could be no discrimination between large and small shippers.

The agreed charges section of the bill says that "a carrier may make such charge or charges for the transport of goods of any shipper or for the transport of any part of his goods as may be agreed between the carrier and the shipper." The agreed charge must be approved by the board of transport commissioners.

Settle Dispute

Japan Gives U.S. Assurances Regarding Salmon Fishing In Alaska

Washington.—The United States and Japan settled their quarrel over Japanese salmon fishing in Alaskan waters.

Japan gave the United States assurances that:

1. She is suspending her three-year fishing survey begun in 1936.

2. She will not issue licenses to boats for fishing in Alaskan waters and will punish offenders.

The United States accepted these assurances for the time being. Nevertheless the bureau of fisheries and the coast guard will keep a sharp lookout over fishing activities off Alaska.

NEW U.S. ENVOY IN ENGLAND

An expansive smile was flashed by Joseph P. Kennedy, new United States' ambassador to the Court of St. James, as he left Buckingham Palace with Sir Sidney Clive, marshal of the diplomatic corps, after presenting his credentials to King George.

Bill To Guarantee Loans For Seed Grain In Western Provinces

Ottawa. In order to insure that fertile wheat lands of western Canada ravaged last year by drought will be seeded this spring, Hon. Charles Dunning, finance minister, moved in the House of Commons the introduction of a bill to guarantee loans for seed grain in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Guarantees in Alberta are limited to $1,900,000 compared with a guarantee of $1,900,000 last year. In Saskatchewan the limit is $14,500,000 against $6,600,000 last year. No guarantee was needed in Manitoba this year.

The 1937 drought in Saskatchewan was much more severe than that of 1929 and this accounted for the large increase in the guarantee.

Mr. Dunning said the bill represented a national effort to give farmers in the drought areas another chance for a crop and a chance under better moisture conditions than has existed at this season for several years. It involved co-operation of the provincial farmer, the municipality, the provincial governments, the federal government and the banks. The federal government was at the end of the guarantee.

Loans were first made by the banks to the municipalities to enable them to supply farmers with seed grain. The provincial governments guaranteed the credit of the municipalities and the Dominion that it would not be affected by the Hitler coup in Austria.

The Alberta government estimated 15,000 farmers in the recognized drought area would apply for seed at a cost of about $1,800,000. In addition about $100,000 would be required to meet the needs of farmers outside the area. Under last year's guarantee $1,329,328 had been loaned in Alberta and as a result of repayments the amount outstanding on Dec. 31 had been reduced to $915,000.

Saskatchewan government estimated upwards of $1,000 farmers would need the assistance.

citizens would need assistance under the measure, against 25,000 last year.

E. E. Perley (Con., Qu'Appelle) submitted the bill should have been introduced sooner. He believed $14,500,000 was sufficient for Saskatchewan's needs.

Administration of relief in Saskatchewan "since 1934 has been a scandal and disgrace, but this is not the time to discuss that," Mr. Perley said. He added he had received many protests from Saskatchewan farmers over provincial regulations governing individual seed allotments.

There was a serious lack of horses in Saskatchewan, Mr. Perley said. Horses shipped out of the province last fall to be fed were returning too weak to work. Many horses left through the winter had died. He suggested the Dominion assist the farmers to buy tractors to work the land otherwise they might be in a serious plight for motive power.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, agriculture minister, said his investigations showed no Saskatchewan horses died from lack of feed last fall. He did not believe the mortality rate in the west for horses and other livestock was any higher than in average years.

Will Visit Germany

Potters Bar, England. A British Legation objective of cementing relations between war veterans of this country and Germany was not affected by the Hitler coup in Austria.

"Old Contemptibles" announced there would be no change in their plans to send delegations to Germany this year to fraternize with German war veterans.

Intelligence Officer Kidnapped Jerusalem. Troops and police throughout the Holy Land pressed an intensive search for Nicholas Faries, British Intelligence agent, kidnapped from an army base in Palestine by an armed band of terrorists.

Perfect A Long Range Armament Policy For Defence Of Canada

Ottawa. A long-range armament policy has been perfected to preserve Canadian neutrality and defend Canadian coastlines, ports, terminals and trade routes from aggressors, Hon. Ian MacKenzie, minister of defence, told the House of Commons.

The annual debate on defence policies opened when the first item in the $31,000,000 armament appropriation was reviewed in the House of Commons. It represented a decrease of $2,000,000 from last year.

Canada, the defence minister emphasized, has given no commitments to other nations regarding war. The money being voted was for defence of Canadian territory and Canadian waters, particularly on the Pacific coast, which was considered the most vulnerable spot.

"Let me say at once," he continued, "the purpose of these estimates is to continue work that was commenced last year within the same defined limitations announced to this house a year ago. In the first place, for the preservation of Canadian neutrality; in the second, for the defence of our Canadian coast line, the defence of our ports and terminals and the defence of the local areas of our trade routes in case of necessity."

"A certain amount of priority has been established after deliberation: first for the air services; secondly, for naval defence and thirdly, in regard to the replacing of deficiencies in equipment of militia services, permanent and non-permanent."

"During the coming year it is proposed to acquire two new destroyers, 75 new aircraft, 55 for the permanent forces and 20 for the non-permanent; additional weapons and munitions and other equipment for all three services. It is proposed to increase the training of the militia services and to construct the second stage of the fortification works on the Pacific coast, the first stage having been authorized in parliament a year ago."

The two destroyers, to be purchased from the British admiralty will cost $1,938,000, making six in

Anglo-Italian Agreement

Report Says Italy Is Anxious For Early Accord

London. The Daily Mail (independent) said Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano may come to London to sign the Anglo-Italian agreement now being negotiated in Rome.

Italy, rather than Britain, is now most anxious for early conclusion of the accord, the New Chronicle (Liberal) said. Premier Mussolini desires to have the agreement completed before Chancellor Hitler goes to Rome May 9, this newspaper said.

Attending Military Camp

Nearly 2,000 Troops Will Train This Summer Near Calgary

Calgary. A military camp located on the borders of the Sarcee Indian reserve, five miles west of Calgary, will be the scene of large scale military manoeuvres this summer reminiscent of the Great War days.

Nearly 2,000 infantry and cavalry troops will train there for war and defence as compared with approximately 750 last year, it was learned at military district 13 headquarters.

Four of them will be placed on the Pacific coast and two on the Atlantic.

The defence department has laid the groundwork for a fishermen's naval reserve on the Pacific coast, its value is listed in coin catalogues as "from $5 to $400." Comby is near Medicine Hat 200 miles south-east of Calgary.

The money being voted will give Canada 10 air squadrons in the permanent militia and 12 in the non-permanent although they will not be fully manned or equipped. Work will be carried out this year on development of aerodromes and bases at Alford bay, Queen Charlotte islands, Patricia bay and Prince Rupert on the Pacific and at Dartmouth, Yarmouth, Truro and Sydney on the Atlantic. The new magazine in the interior of British Columbia will be completed and one near the Atlantic started.

"A well equipped and efficient air force is, in my opinion, of primary importance for the protection of Canadian territory and waters," Mr. MacKenzie continued, "and in view of the rapidly increasing performance of modern aircraft the possibility of attack by such means is today a probability."

"Under direction of the minister general of the ordinance and with the co-operation of the navy, army and air force supply committee, a survey has been made of certain industrial undertakings in Canada with reference to their capacity for manufacturing requirements of the department; they have surveyed over 700 firms in the Dominion of Canada and very soon, I believe, that work will be practically finished and a complete classification will be made in the department."

"With regard to the adequacy of the estimates," Mr. MacKenzie continued, "may I say they are carefully prepared to meet the situations supposed to be those with which we might be confronted. In regard to the military point of view, I think every member of this government and every member of this house would be very glad indeed if this money did not have to be spent on national defence at this time."

Chamberlain Lays Down Broad Lines Of British Foreign Policy

London. In both houses of parliament the government laid down the broad lines of its foreign policy.

Amid government cheers, the policy was upheld on a show of hands in the House of Commons, without formal division.

It is a policy of non-intervention in Spain, a policy which declined to give a prior guarantee to go to war in defence of the independence of Czechoslovakia.

But while in the House of Commons Prime Minister Chamberlain declined to give such a guarantee, he added words of deep significance which went far to meet critics among his own followers.

The words were: "What I am stating this decision I would add this: Where peace and war are concerned legal obligations are not involved and if war were to break out it would be unlikely to be confined to those who have assumed such obligations."

"It would be quite impossible to say where it would end and what governments might become involved. The inexorable pressure of facts might prove more powerful than formal pronouncements. In that event it would be well within the bounds of probability that other countries besides those which were almost immediately involved."

This is especially true in the case of two countries like Britain and France with long associations of friendship and with interests closely interwoven and devoted to the same ideals of democratic liberty and democracy to them."

Winston Churchill, Conservative, who had pressed for a definite stand by Britain against dictators in regard to Czechoslovakia, saw in Mr. Chamberlain's words a considerable advance and a commitment. Yet, Mr. Churchill urged, would it not be still better to take a bolder course.

"We are not taking the fullest step to prevent certain events occurring, but we are liable to suffer if they do occur," he said. "We are liable not only to be drawn in late in the day, but in unfavorable circumstances. It is worthy of consideration whether, having gained so much, a hold course may not be better."

Mr. Churchill said Germany driving her influence down the Danube valley into Hungary and Roumania. What was Britain doing to rally them?

"Suffocation of the Danube states is liable not only to be drawn in late in the day, but in unfavorable circumstances. It is worthy of consideration whether, having gained so much, a hold course may not be better."

THE COLEMAN JOURNAL

H. T. Halliwell, Proprietor.

Published Every Thursday at Coleman, Alberta. Membership in Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and Alberta Div. C.W.N.A.

THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1938.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

MAKING Coleman a better place in which to live and work, is a subject which might be made the subject for letters from high school students. The idea is not ours, but arises from the replies which George W. James, president of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, received from men prominent in financial, professional and ministerial life of the Dominion, to enquiries asking them to state how they thought the weekly press of Canada could be of greater service to the Dominion and the communities which they serve.

AS AN EXPERIMENT, we invite students to send letters to The Journal, and for everyone received and published, one dollar will be paid. This is not meant as a complete reward for the time and effort spent, but in order to stimulate interest in a subject that should be given thought by every citizen. No restrictions will be placed as to length of letters, though brevity is always preferable, for concise thoughts can usually be expressed in few words. Ideas originate more readily among younger people, whose enthusiasm and outlook on life is fresher than older people, and here is an opportunity to give expression of opinions that may be of widespread interest to Canadian people—and may be to people much further afield.

ATTACKS are so frequently made on the Federal government and the present system that it is necessary to point out that some in responsible positions who have prospered under this system now attack it for selfish political reasons. To state that the legislature is the highest court is absurd. If every provincial legislature were allowed to adopt that attitude and act accordingly, Confederation would be wrecked and Canada would disintegrate into nine provinces each setting up its own laws irrespective of national policy.

LOYAL Canadian citizens, no matter in which province they live, recognize that the Federal government is the supreme governing body in Canada, whose duties are outlined in the B.N.A. Act. It has never declared or inferred that its power is superior to the courts of the Dominion, as has Mr. Aberhart and his amateur following. True, the will of the people is expressed, or should be, through their representatives, but what may be the will of the people one year may be entirely reversed the next year. Our provincial government is so shallow and superficial in its actions that no citizen can come to any other conclusion than that the present legislature cares little for national ideals, but puts itself first in every one of its actions. Leadership which will stress national ideals is the pressing need in a province whose population is comprised of approximately one half immigrants from 22 main nationalities of Continental Europe. Such a mixture of nationalities and of races can be easily agitated by demagogic, incendiary policies such as have been the rule in Alberta for the past three years.

POLITICAL representation of Rocky Mountain constituency should be more seriously considered by the mine-workers, who constitute the great majority of voters here. In little more than two years a provincial election will be held, provided the present legislature is able to retain office. It is time that the mine workers were grooming a candidate truly representative of their class, instead of leaving it to others or some self-seeker for a sessional indemnity to push himself forward as a candidate. Two years pass quickly. A candidate to make a good run should make himself acquainted with the mining centres and the people, and by preparation for the Legislature justify the support of the voters.

SINCE a suggestion was made that the skating and curling rink buildings be moved to Flumerfelt park, discussion has revealed varying opinions. Though there are many who favor the change, the problem is—where is the money to come from? It would take a lot of money to dismantle and re-erect it, which some think would be spent to greater advantage in improving the building on its present site. The committee appointed with Sam Moores as chairman has not yet been called together to discuss the matter. Until something definite is proposed, there is little on which to comment.

DOES EVERY retail merchant in Coleman appreciate the fact that an interesting weekly newspaper published not only in their interests but for the whole community is of value to them? Yet because they may not agree at times with its comment, there are some who spend their money for printing elsewhere than in their home town. The result is, we not only lose their business, but they lose ours as well. Local industry can best be developed by reciprocity, and a policy of give and take. This paper strives to give a service of merit to the town, and the interest with which it is looked for each week is an indication of its value.

Fire caused damage estimated at $1,000 about 4 a.m. Friday when J. Filafilo's barn housing 400 chickens was razed. The origin of the fire has not yet been discovered.

Mr. Filafilo made his usual round of inspection at 10.30 p.m. Thursday and found everything in order. A small fire burned in the stove in the basement, but it is not thought that this caused the conflagration. The household was awakened at 4 a.m. but the fire was so far advanced that it was impossible to save anything, the 400 chickens perishing.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The House of Commons gave third reading to the bill providing for separate grading of cereal wheat.

Veteran of the Royal North West Mounted Police, who served in the Riel rebellion of 1885, Charles Knight, 75, died at his home in Calgary.

Her three sons and a daughter were present when Mrs. Margaret Ziegler celebrated her 81st birthday anniversary at Estemay, Sask.

Royalist 20, test well in the extreme north end of the Turner Valley field, came into production recently with a light flow of crude oil.

The Norwegian government has asked parliament to appropriate $2,400,000 kroner (about $135,000) to finance extra defence measures.

Prime Minister Joseph Lyons declared the Australian government has every intention of honoring its pre-election pledges and has no intention of introducing conscription.

President Lezama of Mexico assured Mexican industry that expropriation of foreign oil companies was "exception" and no similar measure is in prospect against other businesses.

Flying Officer A. E. Clouston and his companion, Victor Ricketts, set a new England-New Zealand flight record, making the long flight from London in four days, eight hours, seven minutes.

A total of 42,633 placements have been made under the farm improvement and employment plan in the four western provinces. Labor Minister Norman Rogers told T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn) in the House of Commons.

A Dangerous Situation

Says Nazi Nations Form The Strongest Military Power

A United States-France-Russia war on Germany, Italy and Japan, says Dr. William E. Dodd, former American ambassador to Germany, is the only way for the three nations to "retain their status quo."

"Germany, Italy and Japan, when united in the next war, will form the strongest military power since Napoleon," he said in an interview in the current issue of the "Daily Princeton," Princeton University undergraduate newspaper.

"Of course, the doom of Great Britain is sealed; its last chance to keep its prestige undiminished was passed when parliament refused to go into action against Italy in the Ethiopian situation."

Gift From Artist

Dionne Sisters Receive Five Oil Miniatures Beautifully Framed

So thrilled with the Dionne quintuplets was M. F. Kousal, landscape artist of Chatham, Ontario, that on his return from the Dionne nursery on March 9, he parceled up five miniatures from his exhibition which was showing in North Bay at the time, and presented them to the quint.

The oils, one for each child, were of Atlantic and Gaspe scenes, beautifully framed.

Contract For New Planes

National Defence Department Orders 12 From Hamilton Plant

The national defence department at Ottawa confirmed award of a contract on a cost plus 30 per cent. basis for 12 single-engine, double-seater "Westland Lysander" planes to be built by the National Steel Car Co. at its Hamilton plant. Value of the contract was $390,000. The machines are of the general purpose type, speedy and will carry two or more machine guns and bombs.

A Very Old Plant

Ottawa Man Has Shamrock Handed Down For Three Generations

Do many families hand down plants from generation to generation?

The Regina Leader-Post says a story from an Ottawa newspaper indicates that Frank Asakish, city commissioner of works in Ottawa, probably possesses the oldest plant in Canada—a "pot o' shamrock"—more than 60 years old that has been in the Asakish family for three generations.

Canada's pack of earned vegetables during 1937 was nearly twice as large as last year's, or 12,000, 000 bushels more than last season.

A large majority of flowers which depend upon bees for pollination are either red or blue.

Australia's wheat crop is expected to be 163,000,000 bushels, or 12,000, 000 bushels more than last season.

Big Tourist Traffic

Canada Is Going After Tourist Trade From Britain

Despite the economic recession in the United States and Canada, the Canadian Travel Bureau of the transport department expects the tourist traffic will be as large this year as last when it was estimated visitors to the Dominion spent $295,000,000. In 1936 the tourist traffic brought $255,000,000 to Canada.

Inquiries to the bureau from United States residents between November 3 and March 20 totalled 17,000 compared with 14,000 for the corresponding period a year ago. This would indicate, travel officials declare, the tourist business this year would at least hold its own.

The danger of war in Europe is offsetting the hard times in United States. Many who normally would have crossed the Atlantic this summer will visit Canada.

Canada is also going after the tourist business from the United Kingdom. Hon. C. D. Howe, transport minister, announced. An advertising campaign has been started there to encourage Britishers to come to Canada for their holidays.

The tourist business is not all one way. Canadians, per capita, are claimed to be the greatest tourists in the world. They spent in other countries last year $123,000,000 of which about $120,000,000 was in the United States. This works out at more than $10 a head. If the $295,000,000 spent by Americans in Canada were divided among the entire population of United States it would average less than $2.90 a head.

A Nervous Condition

Says Nerves Play A Major Part In Many Cases Of Asthma

Acute emotional conflicts must be recognized as playing a major part in many asthma cases, Dr. Franz Alexander, director of the Institute for Psycho-Analysis of Chicago, said. The doctor reported that cases of asthma have been effected through psychoanalysis.

In at least half of the cases, he reported, the cases apparently have been cured. Research by Dr. Alexander tends to go back to the conception of asthma held in the last century, when it was generally believed to be a nervous affliction.

FLIN FLON

"The Story of Its Finding and Position To-day"

By PRATT RUHN

FUNNY FACTS ABOUT FLIN FLON

A tremendous output of 4,500 ore tons daily, containing copper, zinc, cadmium, gold, silver and sulphur—that's the Flin Flon mine of today. It's so simple. All you have to do is to find sufficient ore, spend thirty millions or more, and then sell the results at a profit.

Along the way of course you have to erect power plants, dams and drain lakes, build railways, employ 1,700 men, build a town, sewers, water works, etc., and all on the top of immense rocks where little or no soil is available.

Severa had to be constructed on top of the rock, and watermain had to be laid there too. How, then, to prevent freezing in the cold north? Well, the engineers constructed continuous boxes, insulated them and installed the pipes inside. There hasn't been a freeze-up or failure of water supply, though for the sewers the water is heated under high pressure is pumped through the pipes, and that's unusual too.

In fact, the whole of Flin Flon, the type of people who meet, the pleasant way they address you, is quite different from what you imagine a mining town, now of 7,000 inhabitants and growing so fast improvements can hardly keep up, would be.

There are two strips of concrete sidewalk in the whole town, each two storeys wide, on the main street. The rest is rock and dust—lots of dust.

Experiments with Alberta tar showed the slag from the smelter mills to pave streets and sidewalks is being tried. There's a strip of this walk laid in front of the Post Office and it looks good. So perhaps this material will solve the paving problem of Flin Flon.

There's a matter of haulage, of course. From Alberta through Prince Albert, Sask., to Hudson Bay, Winnipeg, Man., and then many miles to Flin Flon, but something will have to be done, and quickly, because autos have increased from 10 in 1936 to 200 in 1937.

Phantom Lake, about two miles away, has a more or less regular daily bus service started early in July. This bus also runs to Mile 84 to Channing and back to Flin Flon.

To get to the Island Falls power station, where the electric power is transmitted to Flin Flon mines and the town, you take a motor boat trip lasting a day, plus portages, or fly the 64 miles in 40 minutes.

Flin Flon has a lot of things "different," including "the world's largest sporting arena on the bed of a dried-out lake" where the game of curling, baseball and occasional football is played. Even the golf holes are "different." The golf course is "different" and the clubhouse, including rocks, clay bottoms and sand greens, but people have a lot of fun playing the golf on this course. Nevertheless, it's known as "The Lake Bottom Golf Club."

Plight Of Rural Teachers

Teachers Receive Less Than Girls Paid For Factory Work

To-day we find the deplorable condition of many rural teachers being paid less than what girls receive for factory work. When it is considered that young men and young women have to make a sizable cash outlay and spend from five to six years after leaving elementary schools to equip themselves for the teaching profession, it becomes readily apparent that they are woefully underpaid even though they receive the $500 minimum wage set by a provincial regulation.

That is less than $10 a week over the calendar year. True, teachers have a long vacation in mid-Summer, but they cannot live on air while they are not teaching. Moreover, some have to go to the additional expense of taking Summer courses to hold their positions. Kitchener B. cord.

Most Extensive Service

Britain Plans Fastest Airmail To All Parts Of Empire

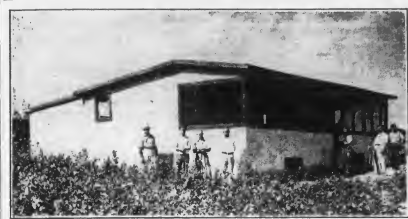

Britain plans to have the fastest and most extensive airmail in the world so that every letter from the British Isles to other parts of the Empire will be flown. The cost of the country at the start being $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 will require the building of 28 flying boats and 14 new air liners. The new machines will carry only letters while the shipping companies will be required to transport parcels and other mails. This change will increase the cost of handling airmail at least $7,500,000 a year. Revenue will decrease for letters to South Africa and Australia will be diminished at the expense rate of three cents for the first ounce and two cents for each subsequent ounce.

Hogarth and Cruikshank, two English cartoonists, employed the "concomitant" idea long before the American comic strip was founded.

"Weren't you furious when her father threw you out of the house?" "Oh, I dunno—it's not much of a house."

Gardening

In planting shrubbery, a good general rule to follow is to allow about half as much space between plants as the height of those plants when fully grown. This will mean that the ordinary Spirea Van Houttei, for instance, a shrub of about 6-7 feet in height at maturity in most parts of the Dominion, should have at least three feet between it and a neighbor. The rule holds good for most things from eight feet down to a few inches, and it particularly applies to planting about foundations.

Very often shrubbery is placed much too close to the house wall or fence with the result that the full beautiful symmetry of the bush is lost and that the shrub about spacing does not hold good for large trees, however, which can be placed much closer together for clump or background effect but must not be permitted to shade the ground beneath grass or flowers as to be grown underneath.

Leaf lettuce, radish, spinach and the first of the garden peas will be among the earliest vegetables sown. These may be planted as soon as the ground is fit to work. All of the first named seeds should be sown at least three times at intervals of ten days so that there will be succession of vegetables. The second group to go in will be carrots, beets, onions, potatoes, etc., which will stand a little frost, and then beans, corn and tomato, cabbage and cauliflower plants, etc., which will kill with frost, and finally those hot weather vegetables like lima beans, squash well started in rows at the back for cutting, where any type of flower may be planted in the row. The colorful array will be welcome.

Most gardeners order considerably more seed than is necessary to fill their garden. After any "misses" have been filed, garden authorities advise sowing the remainder in rows at the back for cutting, where any type of flower may be planted in the row. The colorful array will be welcome.

An Australian Pioneer

Is Believed To Have 1,300 Descendants In That Country

Five hundred relatives of Thomas Southwell gathered in Canberra to celebrate the 100th anniversary of his arrival in Australia.

It is believed to be the largest family reunion ever held in Australia.

Many of the relatives present at the gathering had never met before, but this was not surprising, considering that Thomas Southwell and his wife had been believed to have more than 1,300 descendants in Australia. Thomas Southwell and his wife had 15 children.

Counsel (to woman witness): "I hope I have not troubled you with all these questions?"

Witness: "Not at all—I have a small boy, aged six at home."

"Jack, the darling, told me I was the only girl he had ever loved."

"Yes, and doesn't he say it beautifully?"

Oh well, love at first sight is a great time-saver.

Sunday Trading Restrictions

English Social And Religious Forces Win Preliminary Victory

Social and religious forces in England are now combining to increase again the observance of Sunday, in the traditional English manner—as a day of rest and worship. A preliminary victory in this campaign has been won in the passing of the Shops (Sunday Trading Restrictions) Act, which recently came into full force.

Until a few weeks ago Sunday trading was carried on in various parts of Britain on a considerable scale. Mr. J. R. Leslie, M.P., says that in certain sections of London 75 per cent. of the shops were accustomed to open on the first day of the week. In Cardiff more than a thousand shops, in Swansea more than 600, and in Glasgow more than 5,600 opened on Sundays. Sir John Haslam, M.P., estimates that at the beginning of 1938 roughly 3,000,000 people worked in Britain on Sundays.

The new Act imposes a fine of £5 for the first offence and £20 for the second, but it makes provision for many classes of exemption. It is not, therefore, altogether satisfactory from the point of view of a large section of its supporters; but they welcome it as a step in the right direction. Christian Science Monitor.

Demonstration A Success

New Device Will Trap Intruders Without Their Knowing It

How an invisible network of electric rays can be used to trap intruders and sound an alarm without their knowing it was demonstrated recently. Attempts to enter a 13,000-square-foot area or to move from one zone to another were defeated at every turn in the test. Developed with the aid of General Electric engineers, the device relies principally on the phototube, or electric eye, to foil the intruder. The network is made up of the beam from a standard automobile headlamp from which all visible rays of the light spectrum have been filtered. By a multiple system of mirrors this single invisible beam may be reflected back and forth across a room, around corners and at different angles and levels until the guarded area is completely protected. The system is extremely flexible in that the energy released by interfering with any beam can be used for sounding an outside bell or siren, or transmitting alarms by telephone—Popular Mechanics.

No Room For Argument

Onions And Garlic 'Outlaw' Chemicals Which Kill Bacteria

Dr. Daniel V. O'Leary, Albany health commissioner, contends that onions and garlic are useful in combating infectious diseases because of their immunity to bacterial attack. "Yes, sir, weeping over onions may soon be changed to cheering for the onion and garlic," he said. "The very chemicals in onions and garlic which bring tears to the cook's eyes as she prepares the vegetables are now found to have germ-killing powers."

The germ-killing, tear-starting chemicals have been isolated by Dr. Richard E. Vollrath, professor of physics, and Dr. Carl C. Lindgren, chairman of the bacteriological department of the University of Southern California, Dr. O'Leary said.

Were On Their Way

Two workmen were having dinner by the roadside when some hikers asked them the way to Canterbury. One of the men told them, and away they went.

When they had gone, the other workman said to the one who had given the direction—"Funnily, I never did know the way to Canterbury myself."

"Neither do I," replied the other. "I often wonder where they lay land."

SERVING OTHER RACES

Devotional reading: Isaiah 11:12-16.

Explanations And Comments

Serving in Syrophenia, Mark 7:24-30. Jesus came with his disciples to the Gentile territory, not in the borders of Judea and Galilee. This was Gentile country, and strange country, to say the least. He had just had a long, wearying, tumultuous controversy with the Pharisees, and he was longed to have his Band removed from all that, where they might sit quietly at his feet, safe from the bitter clamors of scribes and Pharisees who were beginning to hate him with a murderous intensity. But try as he would, go where he would, he "could not be hid." A Syrophenian woman, a pagan speaking Greek, a Gentile and not a Jewess, heard that he had come, and she came to him begging him to heal her daughter. It has always been so: Jesus Christ, the Light of the world, can no more be hid than a city set upon a hill can be hid. He deities oblige.

When the woman pleaded with him to help her, Jesus answered, "Let the children be served first." He said; for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it to the dogs." Jesus' manner of speaking and the simile which may have accompanied the words were encouraging to the woman, for she did not turn away. She took up the word and the hint in it; for her was a wise and witty woman. She said, "Yes, Lord, even the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs." Even a dog may be entitled to a crumb, or a kind word, or a little help in suffering. Jesus was completely won to her as she said that, and he healed her daughter, a Gentile, thus teaching that even the Gentiles are the children of God, that all races and not just one must be served. This he rebuked the narrowness of the Pharisee and of traditional Judaism, telling them plainly that while the children were to be served first, that all others must have their turn.

Even a dog may be entitled to a crumb, or a kind word, or a little help in suffering. Jesus was completely won to her as she said that, and he healed her daughter, a Gentile, thus teaching that even the Gentiles are the children of God, that all races and not just one must be served. This he rebuked the narrowness of the Pharisee and of traditional Judaism, telling them plainly that while the children were to be served first, that all others must have their turn.

Jesus' manner of speaking and the simile which may have accompanied the words were encouraging to the woman, for she did not turn away. She took up the word and the hint in it; for her was a wise and witty woman. She said, "Yes, Lord, even the dogs under the table eat of the children's crumbs." CHAPTER VIII. Continued

"I do," said the earl. "Fit like a breeze from the small manorial house in the zoo. Must be bats. Have you noticed any in the canopy of your bed?"

"No, sir."

"I've found some in mine," said the earl. "Frequently. But no matter. Such is life in a castle. What I came here for was to take you on a round of social calls."

"Where, sir?"

"Right here in the castle. It's an old tradition, you see. I am host, and you as co-host. If I may coin a word—must visit all the rooms to summon to dinner any guests who have not already gone down. Clubby custom, what?"

"Very."

"It started in Georgian times," explained the earl. "It was Lucius Bingley's idea. In those four bottle days it behooved a host to make sure that none of his guests had fallen out of a window or rolled under a bed. Let's push off, what?"

"I'll be with you as soon as I put my shoes on," said Ernest. He managed to get them out of the closet without making the sleeping cub.

They visited most of the 44 bedrooms, and Ernest was presented to the guests who regarded him with considerable interest. The fact that many of the guests had already descended to the Great Hall, and that the rest were in various states of deshabille, did not deter the earl from doing his duty to the full.

Their tour completed, Ernest said, "You'll excuse me, sir, I think I shan't come down to dinner."

"Oh, but you must," said the earl. "We're having grouse."

"I'm sorry," said Ernest, "but I belong to a religious sect which does not eat grouse."

"Any scruples about chops?"

"No, sir."

"Chops it is," said the earl. "I'd rather stay in my room."

"But no end of people are looking forward to meeting you," said the earl. "Sir Peter Tyler, for one."

"Who, sir?"

"Surely you've heard of Sir Peter Tyler."

"The name seems familiar," said Ernest, though it didn't.

"It should be to a financier," said the earl. "Sir Peter is what you slangy Yanks would call a 'big shot' in the Street and what we correct Brits call a 'big pot' in the City," course I've heard of him."

"Oh, that Tyler," said Ernest. "Of course he could have a cozy little chat about monopolies, pools, foreign exchange and so on."

"I'm very sorry, sir," said Ernest, firmly, "but the fact is I feel an attack of my old complaint stealing on me."

Would have found no symptoms of caterpillar stomach had they examined Ernest; but they would have found signs of stage-fright with complications of shyness brought on by a lack of proper evening attire.

As he entered his tower chamber, lit by a single sickly bulb, he gave a start for there seemed to be a black figure lying on his bed. A second glance showed him that it was a dinner suit. To the lapel of the coat was pinned a note. It read—

"Dear Mr. Bingley:

I hope you will not think me forward but having on hand this suit, formerly the property of Hon. P. Iverson, now grown too obese for same, I venture to hope it may be of use to you.

Respectfully and gratefully,
Your old debt, C. CRUMP.

P.S. Trust trousseaus are not too tight.

P.P.S. Elaine continues to wag and bark in a most satisfactory manner."

Ernest grinned.

"Good old Crump," he said.

He struggled with temptation, but it was an unequal combat. Temptation carried too many guns. Ernest

"Your old complaint? What is it?"

"I don't know the scientific name for it," said Ernest, "but in America we call it 'caterpillar stomach'."

"Oh, no. Not if you stay in bed for a day and a night."

"I'm so sorry, Ernest. It means missing the dinner and the hunt and the ball."

"I may recover in time to attend the ball," said Ernest.

"I hope so," said the earl, and went down to join the guests.

All the doctors in all the clinics surrendered in exactly 27 seconds of the first round. He began to don the dinner suit, the first time in his life he had ever entered such a costume.

Ernest was slender, but the erstwhile owner must have approached the vanishing point. The coat fitted him like the skin of an asp, and the trousers looked as if they had been pointed on.

Having made sure that the cub was tranquilly slumbering in its closet nest, Ernest started for the dining room, walking, for reasons of prudence, with careful short, stiff steps, a one-man parade of the wooden soldiers.

The grouse and he entered the dining room simultaneously and he stole the show from the birds.

"Food and manners were for the moment forgotten as the diners stared at Ernest, while he followed Crump to a chair at the table, walking warily with the slow gait of a somnambulist.

He found that his seat was next to Lady Rosa.

"I saved a place for you," she whispered. "I had a hunch you were coming."

Captain Duff-Hooper, on Rosa's left, cracked a knuckle at his grouse.

"The other guests, more or less covertly, were watching Ernest.

They seemed disappointed when he ate his grouse in a normal, well-bred manner, instead of tossing it into the air and snapping at it as it passed his mouth.

The talk at table went over Ernest's head like a mail plane. It was a highly technical band of horse-bound folk and mostly abracadabra to him.

"Hands some, rests tonight," remarked Duff-Hooper. "Listen! Hear them?"

They heard without listening. From the temporary pen in the stableyard came a chorus of bays, doleful, eerie.

"Some wild creature must be about," said the captain. "I've never heard them so excited."

"Their appetites will be whetted for tomorrow's run," said Sir Peter Tyler. He looked like a bank, with his solid build and conservative granite face. He picked his words with care, as if he were taking them word by word, from a safety deposit box.

After dinner Ernest, in spite of some nimble dodging found himself pinned in an alcove, by the famous financier.

"You're old, steel, wool, aren't you?" said Sir Peter.

"Yes, sir," Ernest replied, and saw no harm in adding, "Also fur, fish and bananas."

"Stomachful, foot-stalls, sugar and diamonds, myself," said Sir Peter.

"No pig iron?"

"Not at the moment. Later, perhaps. Profit in pig-iron, what?"

"It depends," said Ernest.

"Quite so," agreed the banker.

"How's money in the States?"

"Scarce."

"Tight, eh?"

"Tight as—as trousers," answered Ernest.

"What are your views on inflation, Mr. Bingley?"

"I'd rather not say," said Ernest, who had none whatsoever. Feeling this was a bit blunt, he added, "I do not wish to commit myself at the moment. I hope you understand."

"Perfectly," said Sir Peter. "Wise of you, Bingley. Men in our position must be careful."

2248

Unseen by Sir Peter, Ernest made a grimace at the passing Rosa, which he hoped she would interpret as a signal to come to his rescue.

"Would it be indiscreet to inquire if you contemplate making any investments in England?" asked Sir Peter.

"I may," said Ernest. "And I may not. It depends."

"On whether a good thing comes your way, I take it," said Sir Peter with a fraternal wink.

Then Rosa came up to them.

"May I borrow Mr. Bingley, Sir Peter?" she said. "I'll pay whatever interest you wish to charge."

"I cannot refuse a loan to so charming a lady," said the banker with a bow.

Ernest escorted Lady Rosa across the Great Hall.

"Why were you making faces at me?" she asked.

"So you'd do what you did do," he replied. "I'd rather talk to you than Sir Peter."

"Thank you."

"You see, I don't feel financial to-night."

"How do you feel, Ernest?"

"I feel—began Ernest, seeing an opening—"I feel—" and missing it—"awell. How do you feel, Rosa?"

"Excited. About the hunt tomorrow. Aren't you?"

"Oh, yes. Yes, indeed."

"I'm rather annoyed at Esmer," she said.

"Good."

"What?"

"I mean 'why'?"

"He's been telling everybody that shotgun remark of yours. He says he thinks you meant it."

"I can't understand why Captain Duff-Hooper seems so unfriendly to me," said Ernest. "I haven't done anything to him."

"Oh, haven't you?"

"Why, no," said Ernest. "Nothing intentional, of that I'm sure. What have I done to him?"

"Suppose you go to some quiet spot, and try to figure out the answer," said Rosa.

A bare of dance music from a superannated radio put a period to their conversation.

Ernest walked with Rosa. Also with the Countess of Rathbury.

"Why, you're a rather nice young man," remarked the countess.

"Thank you."

"When do you turn into a monster?"

"Not till midnight," said Ernest.

After the younger guests had danced and talked horse, and the older guests had played bridge and talked horse, the Earl of Bingley shoed them off to bed at eleven, remarking,

"Do you—napping now. The back of a hunter is no place for a snooze. Breakfast at seven sharp. Pleasant dreams to one and all."

One Of Oldest Industries

Authentic Records Show Egyptians Made Cheese In 1400 B.C.

The Swiss are the greatest cheese eaters—16 pounds per year is the individual consumption. The German eats 10 1/2, pounds, the Italian nine pounds, the Briton 8 1/2, the Canadian five, and the American 4 1/2 pounds per individual per year.

The manufacture of cheese is one of the oldest industries in existence, authentic records showing it to have been made in Egypt as early as 1400 B.C. Women of that later period became cheese addicts because they liked it and considered it an aid to their complexions.

Queen Victoria was the first English queen to assume the title of Empress of India. Parliament provided for the title in a bill in 1876.

Avoidupois is the French word for overeating.

Evolution Of Language

Says English Language Is Being Made Over In America

The language that has been in the making in America, with its close relation to actual life and change, its aptness and its imaginative quality, is carrying forward and reinvigorating the medium of expression of all the peoples who use the language, derived from England. That language always borrowed richly from other languages. It built a strong framework, which survives, but it has kept building, altering, and improving with the times. It is the chief language of the world of today, but the centre of its vitality and the main process of its growth are no longer in the place of its birth, but the United States. Here the creative urge is still young and full of vigor. It has been creating an American language, built upon old basic forms approved by long use, but evolving swiftly with the changing needs and conditions of modern existence. The main current flows here unobscured by the current of life. It is not detached from schools. It is not a product of rules. It makes and breaks rules. It is a product of living Chicago Tribune.

These figures are taken from a talk by Dr. Harry M. Johnson, of the highway research board of the National Research Council, as reproduced by Science Digest. "We can sum up the whole situation," he declares, "by saying the young drivers cause twice as many deaths as the average. The middle-aged drivers have the fewest accidents, and the old drivers are the most dangerous. A young driver is in a single row. At these tests become worn and lost the membrane from the inner surface moves over the edge of the jaw, carrying with it fully developed teeth of a new secondary row. At any given time there are behind the front row of teeth, rows in reserve of from five to seven in number, lying recumbent, one behind the other, covered by a broad band of membrane.

All giant fish belonging to the shark family are protected by a horny covering of adamantite shagreen or placoid plates which provides a resistant protection against attack. This substance is so hard that when it is removed it often causes downy emery marks. Added to this the amazing speed of which a shark is capable for short intervals, estimated by natives of many countries at from 35 to 40 miles an hour results in a truly formidable antagonist among sea denizens.

Women Are More Appreciative Of Railway Service Than Men

Women are better travellers than men, A. G. Casgrain, assistant general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways, told a women's club in Montreal. They know their own minds. While men wonder where to go, women know and start making plans. They like bargain excursions. When it comes to family vacations, they make the decision in 75 to 80 per cent. of the cases.

"They are not so hard to please," Mr. Casgrain said gratefully. "They are more interested in what goes on around them, therefore, they get more out of travel. They know exactly what they want and, knowing the difficulty of service, they more fully appreciate what is done for them."

With a greater appreciation of beauty and the fact that they are happiest only when surrounded by beauty and place a high value on cleanliness, women men than men, he said, help the railways make their service attractive.

"Generally, the ladies show their better travel sense in nothing more strikingly than in their baggage. Even a complete wardrobe is light, compact and easily carried. Small overnight bags as against the huge and cumbersome impediments men carry, evidence the good judgment of the ladies."

Aeroplane Factory

Mayor Ralph C. Day announced National Steel Car company will begin construction immediately of a $500,000 aeroplane factory at Malton, 15 miles northwest of Toronto, where a modern airport is being built by the city of Toronto. Between 300 and 350 Toronto men will be employed.

Floorwalker: "I notice that your last customer did not buy anything but he seemed very pleased. What did he want to see?"

Salesgirl: "Me at eight o'clock."
